SECTION 01

The Basics

What are SIFs? What are the types of SIFs?

Disclaimer: Investments in Specialized Investment Funds involve relatively higher risk, including potential loss of capital, liquidity risk, and market volatility. Investors are advised to read all investment strategy-related documents carefully before making any investment decision. Mutual Funds are subject to market risks. Past Performance is not indicative of Future Returns. For Private Circulation Only.

What are SIFs?

A new SEBI category positioned between Mutual Funds and PMS/AIFs

MUTUAL FUNDS

Long-only, limited derivative use

→

SIFs

Derivative-based strategies within a defined regulatory framework

→

PMS / AIFs

Maximum flexibility, much higher ticket sizes

THE STRUCTURE

01

SEBI-Regulated Category

A new investment category introduced by SEBI

02

₹10 Lakh Minimum

Minimum investment of ₹10 lakh per investor per AMC, across all of that AMC's SIF strategies.

03

Access to Sophisticated Strategies

Long-short strategies were earlier available only to AIF investors at min ₹1 Cr ticket. SIF offers similar flexibility with better tax-efficiency.

Disclaimer: Investments in Specialized Investment Funds involve relatively higher risk, including potential loss of capital, liquidity risk, and market volatility. What makes SIFs different? The derivative flexibility

THE DERIVATIVE FLEXIBILITY

Up to 25% in Unhedged Short Derivatives

Unlike MFs, SIFs can deploy up to 25% in unhedged short derivatives, giving fund managers more flexibility across market cycles.

No Leverage through Derivatives

Derivatives cannot be used to take leverage; primarily used for volatility management and income enhancement, with gross exposure capped at 100%.

Potential for Better Risk- Adjusted Returns

Flexibility to use derivatives can help target potentially better risk-adjusted returns than MFs.

Disclaimer: Investments in Specialized Investment Funds involve relatively higher risk, including potential loss of capital, liquidity risk, and market volatility. Investors are advised to read all investment strategy-related documents carefully before making any investment decision. Mutual Funds are subject to market risks. Our View

Where we stand on SIFs today

Disclaimer: Investments in Specialized Investment Funds involve relatively higher risk, including potential loss of capital, liquidity risk, and market volatility. Key considerations before allocating to SIFs

01 SIF is a new category, and its role in investor portfolios is still evolving.

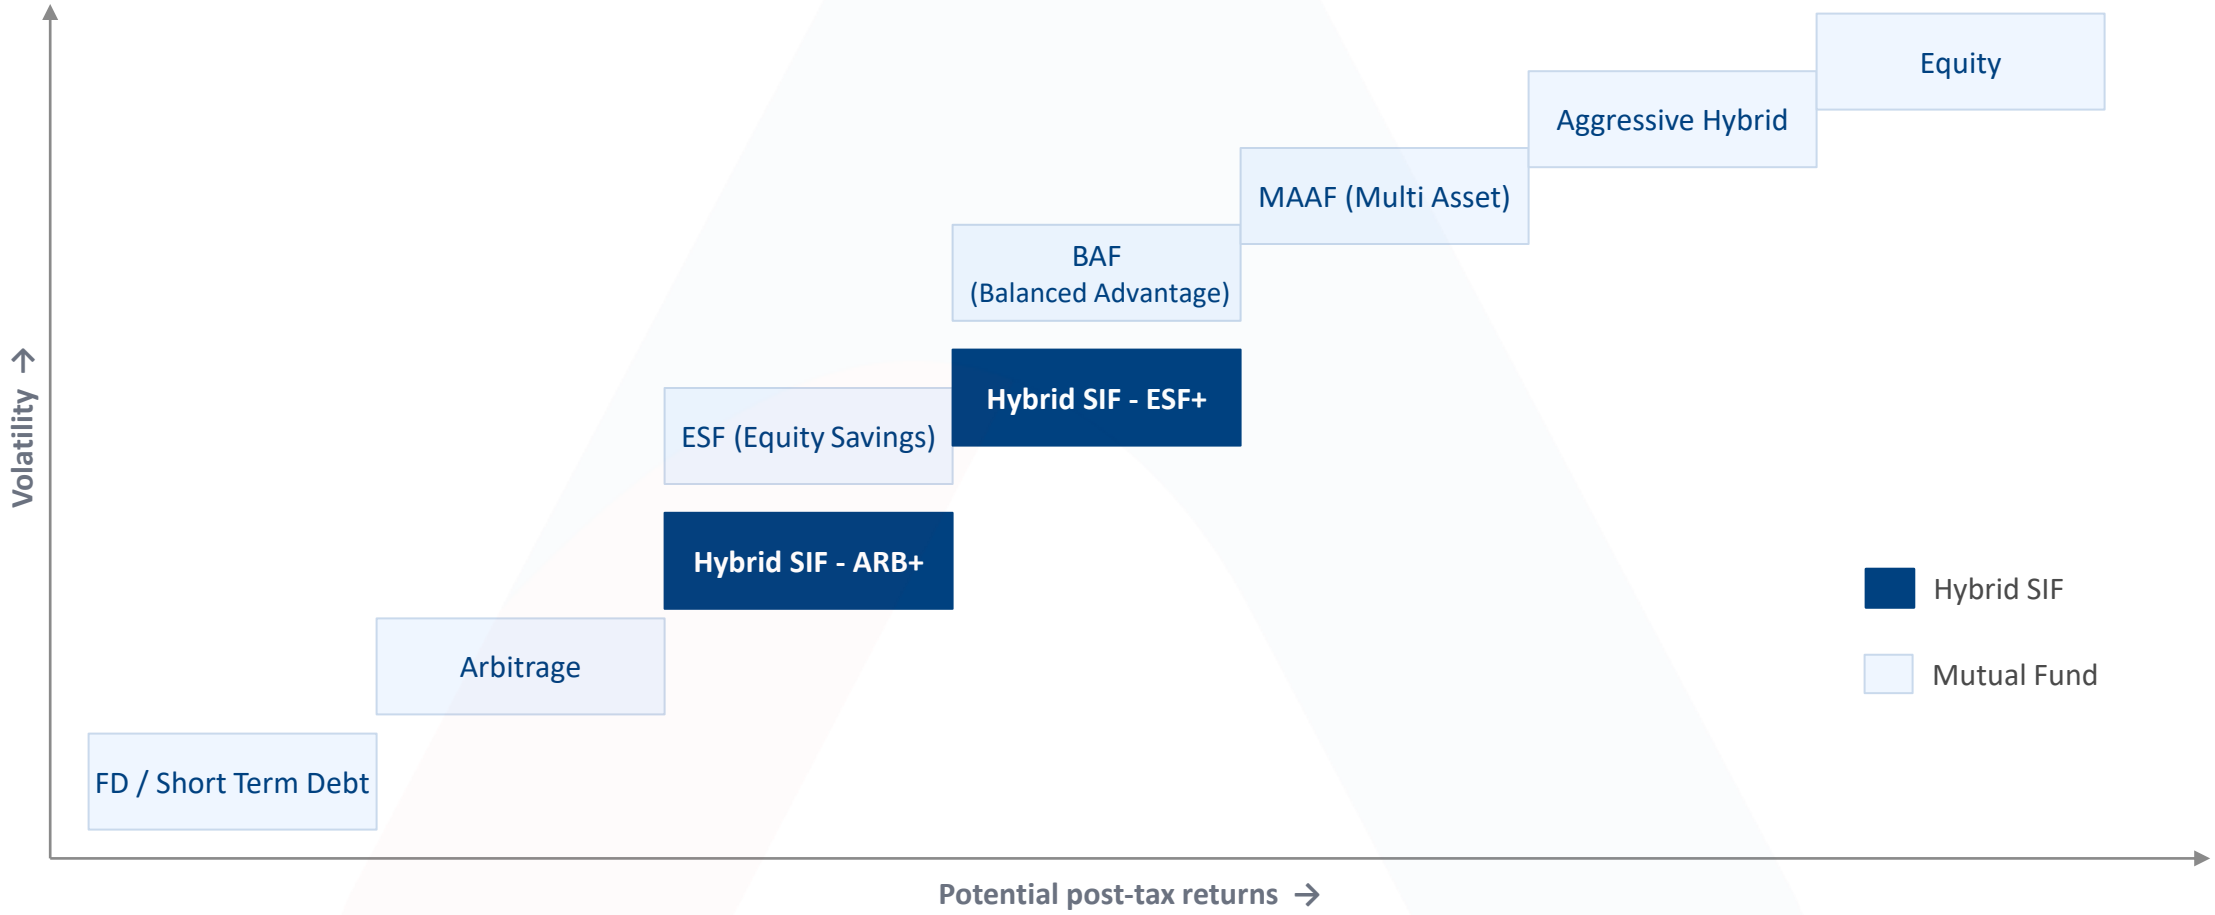

02 SIFs can differ considerably in risk/return even within the same category - strategy-level due diligence is a prerequisite.

03 A strategy may look well-structured on paper, but meaningful allocation should ideally follow only after execution is validated through live performance.

What is our SIF Evaluation Framework?

Four filters every strategy must clear before it earns AssetPlus coverage

01

PEDIGREE

An established AMC or fund management team with a credible track record in managing similar strategies.

02

STRATEGY

Clearly articulated strategy + well-defined risk-return framework. Mandates with excessive flexibility with no defined allocation strategy are potential indicators of style drift or market timing risks.

03

COMMUNICATION

Regular and transparent communication on long-book stock selection, gross and net market exposure, and derivative strategies enables informed evaluation of portfolio's performance attribution
